 New Series [2005 / 2006 / 2007 / 2008]

This page now records the most recent air dates of episodes of Doctor Who on the Australian Broadcasting Corporation since they began broadcasting the new series of Doctor Who on Saturday nights beginning on May 21 2005; the latest episode to screen in the UK, Voyage of the Damned, will probably be aired by the ABC immediately before Series Four. The ABC has now completed its run of the old series, which began on Monday 15 September 2003 and 530 episodes later, ended on Friday 3 February 2006. It was broadcast nationally four nights a week (Monday to Thursday) at just after 6 P.M., except at the very end of the run when the ABC began showing two episodes back to back each weekday. The ABC however did not show the incomplete stories, and owing to a legal cloud were prevented from screening eight complete stories.

Predicting the ABC's schedule was slightly awkward for several reasons; apart from stories being arbitrarily omitted, several of the later stories have unusual durations. The 90-minute version of The Five Doctors was shown divided into four parts; Resurrection of the Daleks was skipped and beginning with the very next story, the ABC began showing 2 episodes back-to-back, Monday to Friday; but Season 22 was shown in 25 minute installments, even though the episodes thus divided were actually screened consecutively on the same night! Finally, the broadcast schedule was interrupted on several occasions:

25 December 2003 : Christmas Day
 5–8 January 2004, 3–6 January 2005, 2–5 January 2006 : Hopmann Cup tennis
 26 January 2004 : Australia Day friendly soccer match
 26 May – 7 June 2004 : French Open tennis

On each occasion the episodes to have been shown were held over to the next available date, although this led to a long delay in finishing some storylines.

N.B.: The black and white episodes which were screened were generally unrestored film prints rather than the re-mastered (or VidFIREd) copies prepared by members of the BBC's Doctor Who Restoration Team. Links between stories have usually been edited to omit the Next Episode caption (when this refers to the first episode of the next story), and some scenes have been removed wholesale (for example, an early scene in The Steel Sky which serves to introduce Dodo Chaplet). Occasionally these removals have required the end credits of episodes to be deleted also, and replaced with a substitute list of credits (for example, the final scene and end credits of A Desperate Venture, which leads into A Land of Fear (Part One of The Reign of Terror). The reconstructed end credits of The O.K. Corral (Part Four of The Gunfighters) was particularly faulty: the list of characters corresponded to those appearing in Part One, and the copyright date shown was probably the year that the substitute credits were made, not the actual production date of the serial!

Similarly, the ABC screened the unrestored black and white versions of Doctor Who and the Silurians, The Ambassadors of Death, and Terror of the Autons, however they did show the re-colourised version of The Dæmons. Episode 1 of Ambassadors was shown in black and white despite the original colour videotape still existing. Occasionally multiple edits of the same episode exist; for example, the version of Episode Three of Invasion of the Dinosaurs screened by the ABC was the first edit (referred to as a 71-edit), rather than the BBC's final broadcast version.

Key: Red Episode is either missing, or if originally in colour, exists only in black and white.
Blue Episode was missing from the BBC Archives when the junkings were halted, and recovered or restored subsequently.

	Episode 1 broadcast 20-v-1967 and 8-vi-1968; missing	163 –
	Episode 2 broadcast 27-v-1967 and 15-vi-1968; recovered from a collector, May 1987	164 –
	Episode 3 broadcast 3-vi-1967 and 22-vi-1968; missing	165 –
	Episode 4 broadcast 10-vi-1967 and 13-vii-1968; missing	166 –
	Episode 5 broadcast 17-vi-1967 and 20-vii-1968; missing	167 –
	Episode 6 broadcast 24-vi-1967 and 27-vii-1968; missing	168 –
	Episode 7 broadcast 1-viii-1967 and 3-viii-1968; missing apart from a 3" clip – a Dalek model shot	169 –
	The Evil of the Daleks was repeated immediately after the final story of Season Five, The Wheel in Space , and incorporated into the narrative under the pretense of the Doctor showing his journeys to new companion Zoe by means of projection. Apart from two breaks of a fortnight, Doctor Who was broadcast continuously for 95 weeks from September 1967 to June 1969.

Fifth Season

Sixth Season

10-viii-1968 – 21-vi-1969, 7 stories, 37 of 44 episodes extant

44	TT	The Dominators , by Norman Ashby (5 episodes)
		Episode 1 broadcast 10-viii-1968; original telerecording extant	210 W 11-ii-04
		Episode 2 broadcast 17-viii-1968; original telerecording extant	211 Th 12-ii-04
		Un-numbered episode broadcast 24-viii-1968; 35mm telerecording recovered from British Film Institute, 1978	212 M 16-ii-04
		Episode 4 broadcast 31-viii-1968; original telerecording incomplete	213 Tu 17-ii-04
		Episode 5 broadcast 7-ix-1968; original telerecording incomplete	214 W 18-ii-04
		A complete print of episode 5 was recovered from a private collector in 1994; the clips excised by Australian censors suffice to complete episodes 4 and 5.
		Norman Ashby was a pseudonym for Mervyn Haisman and Henry Lincoln, who objected to Derrick Sherwin's rewriting of their scripts, which involved dropping episode 6 and editing most of episode 5. Sherwin went uncredited for writing the final script for episode 5.
45	UU	The Mind Robber (5 episodes), by Peter Ling (episodes 2–5)
		Episode 1 written by Derrick Sherwin (uncredited), broadcast 14-ix-1968	215 Th 19-ii-04
		Episode 2 broadcast 21-ix-1968	216 M 23-ii-04
		Episode 3 broadcast 28-ix-1968	217 Tu 24-ii-04
		Episode 4 broadcast 5-x-1968	218 W 25-ii-04
		Episode 5 broadcast 12-x-1968; 35mm telerecording extant	219 Th 26-ii-04
		Interestingly, a caption at the end of episode 5 reads: Next Week "The Invasion"; although a fortnight's break intervened in actual fact. Many of the earlier black and white episodes have had the "Next episode" captions removed in order that the individual stories may stand alone, so it is curious to find this caption intact. More importantly, whole scenes linking the overall narrative together from story to story have often been deleted without apparent comment.
46	VV	The Invasion , by Derrick Sherwin, from a story by Kit Pedler (eight episodes)
		Episode One broadcast 2-xi-1968; missing	220 –
		Episode Two broadcast 9-xi-1968; original telerecording extant	221 –
		Episode Three broadcast 16-xi-1968; original telerecording extant	222 –
		Episode Four broadcast 23-xi-1968; missing	223 –
		Episode Five broadcast 30-xi-1968; original telerecording extant	224 –
		Episode Six broadcast 7-xii-1968; original telerecording incomplete	225 –
		Episode Seven broadcast 14-xii-1968; original telerecording extant	226 –
		Episode Eight broadcast 21-xii-1968; original telerecording extant	227 –
		As discussed below , the ABC could have chosen to air The Invasion in abbreviated form rather than skipping it entirely.
47	WW	The Krotons , by Robert Holmes (four episodes)
		Episode One broadcast 28-xii-1968; 35mm extant, 16mm recovered from British Film Institute, 1978	228 M 1-iii-04
		Episode Two broadcast 4-i-1969; original telerecording extant	229 Tu 2-iii-04
		Episode Three broadcast 11-i-1969; original telerecording extant	230 W 3-iii-04
		Episode Four broadcast 18-i-1969; original telerecording extant	231 Th 4-iii-04
48	XX	The Seeds of Death , by Brian Hayles (six episodes) [scripts completed by Terrance Dicks]
		Episode One broadcast 25-i-1969; original telerecording extant	232 M 8-iii-04
		Episode Two broadcast 1-ii-1969; original telerecording extant	233 Tu 9-iii-04
		Episode Three broadcast 8-ii-1969	234 W 10-iii-04
		Episode Four broadcast 15-ii-1969; original telerecording extant	235 Th 11-iii-04
		Episode Five broadcast 22-ii-1969; 35mm telerecording extant	236 M 15-iii-04
		Episode Six broadcast 1-iii-1969; original telerecording extant	237 Tu 16-iii-04
49	YY	The Space Pirates , by Robert Holmes (six episodes)
		Episode One broadcast 8-iii-1969; missing	238 –
		Episode Two broadcast 15-iii-1969; 35mm telerecording extant	239 –
		Episode Three broadcast 22-iii-1969; missing	240 –
		Episode Four broadcast 29-iii-1969; missing	241 –
		Episode Five broadcast 5-iv-1969; missing	242 –
		Episode Six broadcast 12-iv-1969; missing	243 –
		Episode Six is the last of the 108 missing Doctor Who episodes, though several later episodes originally in colour now exist only as black and white copies.
50	ZZ	The War Games , by Terrance Dicks and Malcolm Hulke (ten episodes)
		Episode One broadcast 19-iv-1969; recovered from British Film Institute, 1978	244 –
		Episode Two broadcast 26-iv-1969; original telerecording extant	245 –
		Episode Three broadcast 3-v-1969; recovered from British Film Institute, 1978	246 –
		Episode Four broadcast 10-v-1969; recovered from British Film Institute, 1978	247 –
		Episode Five broadcast 17-v-1969; original telerecording extant	248 –
		Episode Six broadcast 24-v-1969; recovered from British Film Institute, 1978	249 –
		Episode Seven broadcast 31-v-1969; recovered from British Film Institute, 1978	250 –
		Episode Eight broadcast 7-vi-1969; original telerecording extant	251 –
		Episode Nine broadcast 14-vi-1969; original telerecording extant	252 –
		Episode Ten broadcast 21-vi-1969; recovered from British Film Institute, 1978	253 –

Although The War Games is complete, one small clip in Episode Ten featuring a Dalek was enough for the ABC to remove it from the schedule, rather than risk legal action from the Nation Estate. The issue does not appear to have been fully resolved, and it is unlikely the ABC will restore this and other stories to the schedule - even after the current run is "completed".

Third Doctor : Jon Pertwee

24 stories in 128 episodes, originally broadcast 3-i-1970 – 8-vi-1974

Seventh Season

| Episode 6 broadcast 7-iii-1970 | 263 Th 1-iv-04 |
| Episode 7 broadcast 14-iii-1970 | 264 M 5-iv-04 |
- The original PAL videotapes of this story were wiped; the story now exists in a restored format on D3 Digital Betacam. 16mm film telerecordings in black and white were successfully re-colourised by combining them with the chrominance signal from a copy of a domestic recording of a NTSC colour broadcast. The ABC screened the un-restored black-and-white version.
- 53 CCC The Ambassadors of Death, by David Whitaker (7 episodes) [scripts completed by Trevor Ray, episode 1 and Malcolm Hulke, episodes 2–7]
- | | |
|---|-----------------|
| Episode 1 broadcast 21-iii-1970; original colour videotape extant | 265 Tu 6-iv-04 |
| Episode 2 broadcast 28-iii-1970; 16mm film telerecording partially restored to colour | 266 W 7-iv-04 |

| Episode 5 broadcast 18-iv-1970; 16mm film telerecording wholly restored to colour | 269 Tu 13-iv-04 |
| Episode 6 broadcast 25-iv-1970; 16mm film telerecording partially restored to colour | 270 W 14-iv-04 |
| Episode 7 broadcast 2-v-1970; 16mm film telerecording partially restored to colour | 271 Th 15-iv-04 |
- The original PAL videotapes of episodes 2–7 were wiped and the story now exists in a restored format on D3 Digital Betacam. 16mm film telerecordings in black and white were partially re-colourised by combining them with the chrominance signal from a copy of a domestic recording of a NTSC colour broadcast. The domestic recording had severe problems with colour banding which made it unsuitable for recolourising the entire episode. The ABC screened the un-restored black-and-white versions of all seven episodes.
- 54 DDD Inferno, by Don Houghton (7 episodes)
- | | |
|--------------------------------|-----------------|
| Episode 1 broadcast 9-v-1970 | 272 M 19-iv-04 |

| Episode 5 broadcast 6-vi-1970 | 276 M 26-iv-04 |
| Episode 6 broadcast 13-vi-1970 | 277 Tu 27-iv-04 |
| Episode 7 broadcast 20-vi-1970 | 278 W 28-iv-04 |
- The original PAL videotapes of this story were wiped; colour NTSC copies were returned from TV Ontario c. 1985, and the story now exists as a PAL conversion.

Eighth Season

2-i–19-vi-1971, 5 stories, 25 episodes

- 55 EEE Terror of the Autons, by Robert Holmes (four episodes)
- | | |
|-----------------------------------|-----------------|

| Episode Two broadcast 9-i-1971 | 280 M 3-v-04 |
| Episode Three broadcast 16-i-1971 | 281 Tu 4-v-04 |
| Episode Four broadcast 23-i-1971 | 282 W 5-v-04 |
- The original PAL videotapes of this story were wiped; only a 2' clip of videotape re-used in Nationwide exists in original broadcast quality. 16mm film telerecordings in black and white were successfully re-colourised by combining them with the chrominance signal from a copy of a domestic recording of a NTSC colour broadcast and restored onto PAL D3 Digital Betacam. The ABC screened the un-restored black-and-white version.
- 56 FFF The Mind of Evil, by Don Houghton (six episodes)
- | | |
|--|----------------|
| Episode One broadcast 30-i-1971; black and white 16mm film telerecording extant | 283 Th 6-v-04 |
| Episode Two broadcast 6-ii-1971; black and white 16mm film telerecording extant | 284 M 10-v-04 |

| Episode Five broadcast 27-ii-1971; black and white 16mm film telerecording extant | 287 Th 13-v-04 |
| Episode Six broadcast 6-iii-1971; black and white 16mm film telerecording extant | 288 M 17-v-04 |
- The original PAL videotapes of this story were wiped; only 3 clips lasting 4' 34" exist in colour, on a domestic recording of a NTSC colour broadcast.
- 57 GGG The Claws of Axos, by Bob Baker and Dave Martin (four episodes)
- | | |
|---|----------------|
| Episode One broadcast 13-iii-1971; original colour videotape extant | 289 Tu 18-v-04 |
| Episode Two broadcast 20-iii-1971 | 290 W 19-v-04 |
| Episode Three broadcast 27-iii-1971 | 291 Th 20-v-04 |

Episode Four broadcast 3-iv-1971; original colour videotape extant 292 M 24-v-04
 The original PAL videotapes of episodes two and three were wiped; colour NTSC copies were returned from Canada c. 1979, and the episodes shown were PAL conversions of these copies. More recently the Restoration Team have pioneered a method of Reverse Standards Conversion which rather than reconverting the tape, instead undoes the initial PAL to NTSC conversion to return the video image to reasonably high quality PAL.

58 HHH Colony in Space, by Malcolm Hulke (six episodes)

Episode One broadcast 10-iv-1971 293 Tu 8-vi-04
 Episode Two broadcast 17-iv-1971 294 W 9-vi-04
 Episode Three broadcast 24-iv-1971 295 Th 10-vi-04
 Episode Four broadcast 1-v-1971 296 M 14-vi-04
 Episode Five broadcast 8-v-1971 297 Tu 15-vi-04
 Episode Six broadcast 15-v-1971 298 W 16-vi-04

The original PAL videotapes of this story were wiped; colour NTSC copies were returned from Canada c. 1985, and the story now exists as a PAL conversion.

59 JJJ The Dæmons, by Guy Leopold (five episodes)

Episode One broadcast 22-v-1971 299 Th 17-vi-04
 Episode Two broadcast 29-v-1971 300 M 21-vi-04
 Episode Three broadcast 5-vi-1971 301 Tu 22-vi-04
 Episode Four broadcast 12-vi-1971; original colour videotape extant 302 W 23-vi-04
 Episode Five broadcast 19-vi-1971 303 Th 24-vi-04

Guy Leopold was a pseudonym for Robert Sloman and director/producer Barry Letts. The original PAL videotapes of episodes one to three, and five were wiped; these episodes now exist in a restored format on D3 Digital Betacam, and it was this re-coloured version that was screened by the ABC. 16mm film telerecordings in black and white were successfully re-colourised by combining them with the chrominance signal from a copy of a domestic recording of a NTSC colour broadcast.

Ninth Season

1-i-24-vi-1972, 5 stories, 26 episodes

60 KKK Day of the Daleks, by Louis Marks (four episodes)

Episode One broadcast 1-i-1972; original colour videotape extant 304 –

 Episode Four broadcast 22-i-1972; original colour videotape extant 307 –

61 MMM The Curse of Peladon, by Brian Hayles (four episodes)

Episode One broadcast 29-i-1972 308 M 28-vi-04
 Episode Two broadcast 5-ii-1972 309 Tu 29-vi-04
 Episode Three broadcast 12-ii-1972 310 W 30-vi-04
 Episode Four broadcast 19-ii-1972 311 Th 1-vii-04

The original PAL videotapes of this story were wiped; colour NTSC copies were returned from Canada c. 1979, and the story now exists as a PAL conversion.

62 LLL The Sea Devils, by Malcolm Hulke (six episodes)

Episode One broadcast 26-ii-1972 312 M 5-vii-04
 Episode Two broadcast 4-iii-1972 313 Tu 6-vii-04
 Episode Three broadcast 11-iii-1972 314 W 7-vii-04
 Episode Four broadcast 18-iii-1972; original colour videotape extant 315 Th 8-vii-04
 Episode Five broadcast 25-iii-1972; original colour videotape suffers from a severe scratch, a broadcast-quality PAL D3 restoration exists 316 M 12-vii-04
 Episode Six broadcast 1-iv-1972; original colour videotape extant 317 Tu 13-vii-04

The original PAL videotapes of episodes one to three were wiped; colour NTSC copies were returned from Canada c. 1983, and the story now exists as a PAL conversion.

63 NNN The Mutants, by Bob Baker and Dave Martin (six episodes)

Episode One broadcast 8-iv-1972 318 W 14-vii-04
 Episode Two broadcast 15-iv-1972 319 Th 15-vii-04
 Episode Three broadcast 22-iv-1972; original colour videotape extant 320 M 19-vii-04
 Episode Four broadcast 29-iv-1972; original colour videotape extant 321 Tu 20-vii-04
 Episode Five broadcast 6-v-1972; original colour videotape extant 322 W 21-vii-04
 Episode Six broadcast 13-v-1972; original colour videotape extant 323 Th 22-vii-04

The original PAL videotapes of episodes one and two were wiped; colour NTSC copies were returned from Canada c. 1979, and the story now exists as a PAL conversion.

64 OOO The Time Monster, by Robert Sloman (six episodes)

Episode One broadcast 20-v-1972 324 M 26-vii-04
 Episode Two broadcast 27-v-1972 325 Tu 27-vii-04
 Episode Three broadcast 3-vi-1972 326 W 28-vii-04
 Episode Four broadcast 10-vi-1972 327 Th 29-vii-04
 Episode Five broadcast 17-vi-1972 328 M 2-viii-04
 Episode Six broadcast 24-vi-1972 329 Tu 3-viii-04

This story was co-written by director/producer Barry Letts, who received no on-screen writer's credit. The original PAL videotapes of this story were wiped; colour NTSC copies were returned from Canada c. 1979, and the episodes exist as PAL conversions. Subsequently a black and white PAL videotape of episode six was discovered allowing a higher-quality restoration onto PAL D3 Digital Betacam, by combining the luminance signal of the PAL videotape with the chrominance signal of the NTSC conversion (similar in technique to the pioneering colour restorations of Terror of the Autons et c).

The incomplete stories

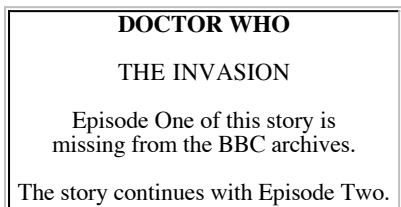

It is not possible for any television company to screen the entire series of 751 episodes of Doctor Who without resorting to off-air sound recordings for 108 of the black and white episodes – the complete video or film recordings of which are currently irretrievably missing. In practice then, these missing episodes are passed over, but so are the extant sections of the narrative which are linked to the missing parts – if an eight episode story is missing only two episodes, then the remaining six parts are routinely omitted as not being transmittable by themselves. In this way, no less than 143 of the initial run of 253 episodes are skipped.

In screening these older episodes of Doctor Who the ABC has made no apology or explanation for skipping episodes here and there; the first break from the end of The Brink of Disaster to the start of The Sea of Death may have been too subtle to justify drawing attention to the fact, but skipping 25 episodes from Checkmate (Part Four of The Time Meddler) to The Steel Sky (Part One of The Ark) – in which one companion (Vicki) is inexplicably replaced by another (Dodo) – surely deserved some form of explanation for the novice viewer. If this weren't bad enough, the next large and obvious gap of 43 episodes consists of the entirety of Season Four, wherein actor William Hartnell is replaced by Patrick Troughton as the Doctor, companions Polly and Ben are replaced by Jamie and Victoria, and a new version of the opening titles sequence appears! The stories within these and other gaps are not wholly missing however, and indeed the extant portions of these stories amount to no less than 35 episodes.

A posting on the Doctor Who Restoration Team's web forums prior to the start of the ABC run indicated that some of these episodes from incomplete stories were to be included in the new broadcast prints to be sent to Australia; however a later clarification stated that the BBC does not offer the incomplete stories for sale. Also the appalling quality of the first few prints shown by the ABC made it clear that they were obtained from the UKTV cable channel or their own archives, rather than being newly struck prints from the restored BBC masters. While the ABC is under no actual obligation to show every single Doctor Who episode (other than their announcement that they would try to show "everything"), it should be noted that four of the sixteen incomplete stories would be reasonably suitable for broadcast despite the occasional gaps within the narrative, as the missing portion is usually only two episodes out of six or more in total, or one missing out of four.

These four stories are The Invasion (episodes 1 and 4 missing out of 8), The Ice Warriors (episodes 2 and 3 missing out of 6), The Reign of Terror (episodes 4 and 5 missing out of 6), and The Tenth Planet (episode 4 missing out of 4). The extant portions of these stories include 17 episodes, or nearly half of the 35 episodes coming from the incomplete stories (the other 18 episodes were released on DVD in Australia during December 2004). It may well be argued that The Tenth Planet is a less than desirable offering owing to the conclusion of the story being missing. But some explanation was surely required to account for the obvious jump from the end of The War Machines to The Tomb of the Cybermen; and what more obvious way to do so than to include the 27 second clip which shows the change of lead actor from Hartnell to Troughton, and also include an apology for the missing stories?

However, the other three stories do however have a watchable narrative of either four or six episodes' length; how difficult therefore would it have been for the ABC to replace the gaudy "Back to the Future" introduction with a screen explaining the absence of the occasional episode here and there? For example:

The ABC had already declined to show The Reign of Terror when the return of the series was mooted in August 2003, and likewise it became clear from ABC's advance programming for February and March 2004 that The Tenth Planet, The Ice Warriors, and The Invasion were also to be skipped over. Unless some miraculous recoveries are made in the bowels of the ABC archives it is therefore extremely unlikely that the ABC will show what remains of these or any of the other incomplete stories.

The legal problem

Owing to legal difficulties between the BBC and the estate of the late Terry Nation, the ABC were unable to show several of the stories depicting Daleks, amounting to 42 episodes. This is due to the BBC owning the copyright of the depicted physical form of the Daleks (designed by BBC employee Raymond Cusick) whereas Nation's heirs retain copyright of his literary conception of the Daleks. With the exception of some early stories for which the BBC had arranged clearances in perpetuity, whether any story containing Daleks actually airs is subject to the whims of the Nation estate. The situation appeared to be resolved late in 2004 with the airing of several stories, until in May 2005 the ABC declined to air Destiny of the Daleks. The ABC reached the end of the run in early February 2006 with Survival, having omitted eight otherwise complete stories, as given below.

Story Title	Episodes	Author(s)	Status
The Daleks	7	Terry Nation	Believed to have been cleared in perpetuity.
The Keys of Marinus	6	Terry Nation	Believed not to be affected by these discussions. Was screened by the ABC.
The Dalek Invasion of Earth	6	Terry Nation	Believed to have been cleared in perpetuity.
The Space Museum	4	Glyn Jones	Ought to have been scrapped owing to the scene with a Dalek as a museum exhibit, but was screened by the ABC nonetheless.
The Chase	6	Terry Nation	Believed to have been cleared in perpetuity.
(The stories Mission to the Unknown , The Daleks' Master Plan , Power of the Daleks , and Evil of the Daleks are incomplete.)
The War Games	10	Terrance Dicks, Malcolm Hulke	Contains a clip of a non-speaking Dalek in Episode Ten. Owing to the ABC's unwillingness to cut out the 5 or so seconds of this clip, the entire 200+ minutes of story were dropped.
The Mind of Evil	6	Don Houghton	This was shown despite the image of a Dalek appearing in Episode Five, with a Dalek-like voice-over in this and several other episodes.
Day of the Daleks	4	Louis Marks	Not screened.
Frontier in Space	6	Malcolm Hulke	Daleks appear in Episode Six. Not screened.
Planet of the Daleks	6	Terry Nation	Not screened.
Death to the Daleks	4	Terry Nation	Was screened.
Genesis of the Daleks	6	Terry Nation	Was screened.
The Android Invasion	4	Terry Nation	Was screened.
Destiny of the Daleks	4	Terry Nation	Not screened.
Logopolis	4	Christopher H. Bidmead	Contains a (dispensable) clip of a Dalek in Part Four. Was screened.
The Five Doctors	4*	Terrance Dicks	Contains a couple of scenes with a Dalek. Was screened.
Resurrection of the Daleks	4*	Eric Saward	Not screened.
Revelation of the Daleks	4*	Eric Saward	Not screened.
Remembrance of the Daleks	4	Ben Aaronovitch	Not screened.

* Stories listed as four-part stories were shown as such on the ABC, but originally aired on the BBC as double or movie length episodes.

Had all of the episodes with Daleks been omitted, nearly one fifth of the total number, or four months' worth of episodes, would have been scrapped (92 of the 553 episodes from complete stories).
